WELCOME HOME!

Welcome to our homecoming,
Come in and make yourselves at home.
As we all shout Hallelujah!
To our God upon His throne.
This is only just a sample,
A tiny taste of what's to come.
When we have that Great Homecoming,
With the Father and His Son!
We'll worship in His presence,
Giving praise forevermore.
And we'll meet our loved ones,
Who have gone this path before.
Ah Yes! That Great Homecoming,
So awesome and so grand.
When Jesus steps out on a cloud,
And takes us all to Glory Land!

Memories from a Church Pew

I have felt such joy and sadness, from souls upon my seat.
From tears of joy on wedding days, to death and its defeat,
Felt the weight of heavy burdens, mighty heavy a load.
Heard the tears of new Salvation, many lost, found God's road.
Listening to sounds of stillness, yes, I heard some snoring.
Heard many long winded sermons, some, they were quite boring.
I felt God's presence everyday, filling their hearts with love.
The sounds of pipe organs playing, lifted to God above.
Heard Hallelujah and Amen, sun shone through stained glass.
Heard souls cry out for forgiveness, God said, this too shall pass.
With the souls who weathered the storm here in church I still stand.
A little worn but strong enough, still here, lending a hand.
