Thoughts on Being a Grandparent

What a bargain grandchildren are! I give them my loose change, and they give me a million dollars worth of pleasure.

Perfect love sometimes does not come until the first grandchild.

Grandmothers are moms with lots of frosting.

A grandparent is a babysitter who watches the kids instead of television.

Becoming a grandmother is wonderful. One moment you're just a mother. The next you are all wise and prehistoric.

Grandchildren don't stay young forever, which is good because Grandpas have only so many horsey rides in them.

Grandmothers always make you feel like she has been waiting all day just to see you and now her day is complete.

Grandmothers hold our tiny hands for just a little while, but our hearts forever.

Grandmas never run out of hugs, cookies or treats.

If I had known how wonderful it would be to have grandchildren, I would have had them first.

My grandchildren believe I'm the oldest thing in the world. After two or three hours with them, I believe it too.

It's such a grand thing to be a mother of a mother; that's why the world calls her a grandmother.

Grandchildren are God's way of compensating us for growing old.

The best baby-sitters, of course, are the baby's grandparents. You feel completely comfortable entrusting your baby to them for long periods, which is why most grandparents flee to Florida.

Grandparents are short on criticism and long on love.

A grandparent is old on the outside, but young on the inside.

One of the most powerful handclasps is that of a new grand baby around the finger of a grandfather.

It's amazing how grandparents seem so young once you become one.

If your baby is beautiful, perfect, never cries or fusses, sleeps on schedule, burps on demand and is an angel virtually all the time, you're the grandma.
